4.7.5 The Client acknowledges that the Company acts as principal and contractual counterparty to Client Transactions. Accordingly, where the Company retains all or part of the market exposure arising from a Client Transaction, the Company's financial interest may be opposite to that of the Client. 13.2 Leverage Requirements

- 13.2.2 You are able to request a different leverage via your Client Area on our Website. However, you should note that leverage is subject to constant review and your leverage will be restricted as per the "leverage bands" stated in your Client Area on our Website.

Our quoted prices may reflect, at our discretion, Market volatility or additional costs and charges which may result in an increase in the Spread as well as per Transaction or per-lot Commission.
- 13.5.2 Prices quoted for Forex and CFDs on our Platforms, are derived by reference to the price of the underlying Market, which are quoted by our Liquidity Providers whom all orders will be transmitted for execution. Schedule 2: General Risk Disclosure Notice

For Complex Products (Forex and CFD Products)

1. Scope of Notice

The General Risk Disclosure Notice ("the Notice") is provided to you on the basis that you are proposing to trade on Qube Markets's trading Platforms in CFDs and Forex, which are leveraged products, incur a high level of risk and can result in the loss of all your invested capital. It should be noted that the Notice does not contain all the risks and aspects involved in trading Forex and CFDs; therefore, you need to ensure that your decision is made on an informed basis taking into consideration the following points below.

2. General Risk Warning Notice.

Forex and CFDs are leveraged derivative products, which are "complex" products. Complex products are Financial Instruments with structures that make the risks and likelihood of return more difficult to understand, including Platforms giving access to complex products, are also likely to be considered complex. A complex Financial Instrument requires a greater level of experience and knowledge of the underlying risks involved. This includes derivative instruments such as Forex and CFDs. You should have sufficient knowledge and experience in trading such leveraged derivative products. You should not trade in leveraged derivatives unless you understand the risky nature of the contract you are entering into and the extent of your exposure to risk. You should also be satisfied that the contract is suitable for you in the light of your personal circumstances and financial position. You should not invest money you cannot afford to lose. Before deciding to participate in the Forex or CFD Market, you should carefully consider your investment objectives, level of experience and risk appetite. You should seek independent professional financial advice if you are in any doubt. When trading in Forex and CFDs there is considerable exposure to risk in any off-exchange foreign exchange transaction, including, but not limited to, Leverage risk, credit risk, Market volatility, weekend, holiday and overnight risk, exchange risk and abnormal Market conditions that may substantially affect the price, or liquidity of a currency or currency pair.

3. Leverage Risk

Unlike traditional trading, trading forex and CFDs means that you are able to trade the Markets by paying only a small percentage of the total trade value when opening a position referred to as "Margin". Due to the leveraged nature of Forex and CFD products, any small Market movement can lead to a proportionally much larger movement in value of your position, which can work against you as well as for you and you could lose all or more than your initial Margin. As the possibility exists that you could sustain a total loss of or more than your initial margined funds and that the Margin on all open positions must be maintained at the required level in order to keep any position open, you may be required to deposit additional funds to maintain your open position. If a position moves against you and reduces your balance so that you are below the required Margin level on a particular trade, you will be subject to a "Margin Call" and will have to pay additional money into your account to keep the position open. If you fail to meet any Margin requirements, your position may be liquidated, and you will be responsible for any resulting losses. To manage exposure, you can employ risk-management strategies such as 'stop-loss' or 'limit' orders, however you must know that such strategies are not guaranteed. It is your responsibility to monitor your account and ensure that the required Margin is available on your account at all times. Qube Markets may provide leverage ratios dependent on the level of experience of clients. It should be noted that leverage restrictions may apply to certain Products, Platforms and/or jurisdictions, as indicated on the official website of Qube Markets. It should be noted that Qube Markets may monitor the leverage applied to client's positions, at all times; Qube Markets reserves the right to decrease the leverage depending on the client's trade volume. There may be specific maximum leverage limits and/or Margin requirements on certain Financial Instruments that are available for trading on our Platforms. For more information, please visit our Website: www.qubemarkets.com

4. Margin requirement

You need to ensure that you have sufficient Margin on your Account, at all times, in order to maintain an open position. In addition, you need to continuously monitor any open positions in order to avoid positions being closed due to the unavailability of funds; it should be noted that Qube Markets is not responsible for notifying clients of any such instances. The Client is solely responsible for monitoring the account balance and Margin

Level and for ensuring that sufficient funds are maintained at all times to support any open positions. If the Client's Margin Level falls to or below 100% of the applicable Margin Requirement, the Client may receive a margin call. Any margin call is provided for notification purposes only and does not constitute a representation, guarantee, or obligation on the part of the Company to provide advance notice before taking any further action in relation to the Client's positions. The Company reserves the right, but assumes no obligation, to close one or more of the Client's open positions, commencing with the most unprofitable positions, if the Margin Level continues to decline. If the Client's Margin Level falls to or below 20% of the applicable Margin Requirement, the Client's open positions may be automatically liquidated, in whole or in part, without prior notice, commencing with the most unprofitable positions, at the prevailing market price. The Client acknowledges and agrees that prevailing market conditions, including volatility, reduced liquidity, and execution delays, may result in liquidation being executed at prices different from those anticipated, and the Company shall not be liable for any losses arising from or in connection with such liquidation.

5. Credit Risk

When trading CFDs the client is effectively entering into an off-exchange or over-the-counter ("OTC") transaction, this implies that any position opened with Qube Markets cannot be closed with any other entity. OTC transactions may involve greater risk compared to transactions occurring on regulated markets, for example traditional exchanges; this is due to the fact that in OTC transactions there is no central counterparty and either party to the transaction bears certain credit risk (or risk of default).

6. Abnormal Market conditions

Under abnormal Market conditions, Forex and CFD prices may fluctuate rapidly to reflect unforeseeable events that cannot be controlled either by Qube Markets or the client. As a result, Qube Markets may be unable to execute the client's instructions at the declared price and a 'stop loss' instruction cannot guarantee to limit the losses at the set 'Stop Loss', this can lead to 'Slippage'. This may occur for example during the following scenarios:

- (a) During or when the Market opens; and/or
- (b) During news times; and/or
- (c) During times of Market volatility, for example political uncertainty, where prices may move significantly up or down and away from declared price; and/or
- (d) If there is insufficient liquidity in the Market for the execution of the specific volume at the declared price. CFD prices are influenced by, amongst other things, implementation of governmental, agricultural, commercial or trade programs and policies, national, international socioeconomic and political events.

7. Trading Platform conditions

The client accepts that the only reliable source of price related information is the price quotes represented on the real/ live server; this service may be disrupted and as a result price related information may not reach the client. There are risks associated with utilizing an internet-based trading system including, but not limited to, the failure of hardware, software, and Internet connection. Since Qube Markets does not control signal power, its reception or routing via Internet, configuration of your equipment or reliability of its connection, Qube Markets will not be responsible for communication failures, distortions or delays when trading via the Internet. Qube Markets is not responsible for communication failures or delays when trading via the Internet. Qube Markets employs back-up systems and contingency plans to minimize the possibility of system failure, and trading via telephone is available only in the event of system failure.

8. Product descriptions and associated risks

At any one time, not all of the products below will be available for trading purposes. Qube Markets reserves the right to remove the offering of any of the following products from the trading Platforms without prior notice.

- Rolling Spot Forex Rolling spot Forex is both a future where the underlying instrument being traded is foreign exchange or sterling or it is a contract for difference where the profit is secured or a loss is avoided through fluctuations in foreign exchange rates and in either case the contract is entered into for speculative purposes. A rolling spot forex contract can be 'rolled' indefinitely and no currency may be actually delivered until the position is closed. This exposes both parties to fluctuations in the underlying currencies.

- Spread Bet Spread betting is a type of trading that involves taking a bet on the price movement of a security. You would generally be quoted two prices, the bid and offer price (also called the spread), and you bet whether the price of the underlying stock will be lower than the bid or higher than the offer. You will never own the underlying stock in spread betting, as you are simply speculating on the price movement of the stock.
- Currency or Forex options Currency or Forex options are derivative financial instruments that give the right but not the obligation to buy or sell a specific currency, at a specified exchange rate on or before a specific date. You must also realize that when buying options means you could lose the entire option investment should the option expire worthless.
- Contracts for Difference (CFD) A CFD is an agreement to exchange the difference between the opening and closing value of a contract when closed. Rather than buying or selling the underlying instrument on which your contract is based, you simply place a trade on our trading Platform. The price of your CFD will then replicate the price of the underlying asset (without actually owning the underlying product) giving you a profit (or a loss) as the price of the underlying moves, so that the amount of any profit or loss made on a CFD will be equal to the difference between the price of the underlying instrument when the CFD is opened and the price of the underlying instrument when the CFD is closed, multiplied by the number of underlying instruments to which the CFD relates. CFDs are a way of trading on the upward or downward price movements of traditional financial markets without buying or selling the underlying asset directly. The potential losses associated with the price movements can exceed the total value of the initial margin (and any additional margin funds) you have deposited with us, and you may be obliged to close your positions at the worst possible time. CFDs are contracts that can be entered into in relation to Commodities or the FTSE-100 index or any other index or share, as well as currency. Investing in a CFD carries risks similar to investing in a future or an option and you should be aware of these. Transactions in CFDs may also involve a contingent liability and you should be aware of the implications of this as set out below. All these products are types of leveraged derivatives that are used for speculative or hedging investment purposes. Transactions in these products may also have a contingent liability and you should be aware of the implications of this as set out below. In addition to the General Risk Disclosure Notice contained in this Agreement, you should be aware that margined currency trading is one of the riskiest forms of investment available in the financial Markets and is only suitable for sophisticated individuals and institutions. Given the possibility of losing an entire investment, speculation in the foreign exchange Market should only be conducted with risk capital funds that if lost will not significantly affect your personal or institution's financial wellbeing. If you have pursued only conservative forms of investment in the past, you may wish to study currency trading further before continuing an investment of this nature. If you wish to continue with your investment, you acknowledge that the funds you intend to invest is money you can afford to lose and the potential loss of all or more than your investment will not jeopardize your style of living nor will it detract from your future retirement program. Additionally, you fully understand the nature and risks of trading spot Forex, currency options, CFDs or spread betting investments, and your obligations to others will not be neglected should you suffer financial losses.

9. Foreign Markets

Foreign Markets involve different risks from Markets. In some cases risks will be greater. The potential for profit or loss from transactions on foreign Markets or in foreign currency will be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. Such enhanced risks include the risks of political or economic policy changes in a foreign media, which may substantially and permanently alter the conditions terms, Marketability or price of a foreign currency.

10. Risk mitigating orders or strategies

The placing of certain orders (e.g. "Stop Loss" or "Stop Limits" orders) that are intended to limit losses to certain amounts, are not guaranteed. Such strategies may not always be affected because Market conditions or technological limitations may make it impossible to execute such orders.

11. Prices

The prices quoted may not necessarily reflect the broader Market. We will select closing prices to be used in determining Margin requirements and in periodically marking to Market the positions in Client accounts. Although we expect that these prices will be reasonably related to those available on what is known as the interbank Market, prices we use may vary from those available to banks and other participants in the interbank Market. Consequently, we may exercise considerable discretion in setting Margin requirements and collecting Margin funds.

12. Weekend risk

Various situations, developments or events may arise over a weekend when currency, Commodity and other Markets generally close for trading, that may cause the Markets to open at a significantly different price from where they closed on Friday afternoon. Our Clients will not be able to use the electronic communication systems to place or change orders over the weekend and at other times when the Markets are generally closed. There is a substantial risk that stop-loss orders, which are not guaranteed, applied to manage the risk to open positions held over the weekend will be executed at levels significantly worse than their specified price and you may be liable for making good any losses, even if they are unforeseen.

13. Electronic trading

The use of electronic trading systems, Platforms and communication networks to facilitate trades. Clients who trade are exposed to risks associated with the system or Platform including the failure of hardware and software system or network down timed access or connection failures.

14. Contingent liability transactions

Such transactions are margined, require you to make a series of payments against the purchase price, instead of paying the whole purchase price immediately. You may sustain a total loss of the Margin you deposit with your dealer to establish or maintain a position. If the Market moves against you, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional Margin at short notice to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, your position may be liquidated at a loss and you will be liable for any resulting deficit. Even if the transaction is not margined, it may still carry an obligation to make further payments in certain circumstances over and above any amount paid when you entered into the contract. Contingent liability transactions, which are not traded on or under the rules of a recognized or designated investment exchange, may expose you to substantially greater risks.

15. Collateral

If you deposit collateral as security, you should ascertain how your collateral will be dealt with. Deposited collateral may lose its identity as your property once dealings on your behalf are undertaken. Even if your dealings should ultimately prove profitable, you may not get back the same assets, which you deposited and may have to accept payment in cash.

16. Commissions

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain details of all Commissions and other charges for which you will be liable from the Qube Markets Website or enquire at support@qubemarkets.com. If any charges are not expressed in money terms (but, for example, as a dealing spread), you should obtain a clear written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what such charges are likely to mean in specific money terms.

17. Insolvency

Any insolvency or default may lead to positions being liquidated or closed out without your consent. In certain circumstances, you may not get back the actual assets, which you lodged as collateral and you may have to accept any available payment in cash. You should only engage in CFD or Rolling Spot Forex trading if you are prepared to accept a high degree of risk and in particular the risks outlined in the above. You must be prepared to sustain the total loss of all amounts you may have deposited with your firm as well as any losses, charges (such as interest) and any other amounts (such as costs) we incur in recovering payment from you.

18. General

If you are in any doubt whatsoever about any aspect of the risks involved in the financial instruments noted in this General Risk Disclosure Notice, then we strongly recommend that you seek independent professional help or advice before continuing as your trading strategy may not be suitable or appropriate for you. Margin trading is not necessarily designed to replace existing or traditional methods of investing and is therefore not suited to everyone so you must ensure that you fully understand the risks before taking up your trading strategy.

Schedule 3: Product Terms for Range Spreads

When trading Range Spreads, which are Contract for Differences, you can achieve a profit or a loss. Due to the high risk nature of Range Spreads, you can also lose all the money you have deposited. You should only trade with money that you can afford to lose. You should ensure you have sufficient knowledge and experience to understand the risks involved in trading CFDs and seek independent professional financial advice if in any doubt. This Schedule 3 sets out Terms that apply specifically to Range Spreads on any Account, including those in relation to Trades, prices, rejected Trades, profit and loss, withdrawals and cancellations of Trades, pricing errors and trading hours.

1. Range Spreads Contracts

A Range Spreads constitute a Contract for difference investment.

By entering into a Range Spreads, you can speculate on whether the Market price of an Underlying Asset of an Asset Class will rise or fall, which are available to Trade on the Range Spreads Platform and will be within a Price Range during a specific time period. The Asset Classes available on the Range Spreads Platform are Forex, Commodities, indices and Sentiments and are subject to change at no notice.

2. Placing Range Spreads Trades

As a result of Price fluctuations in Underlying Assets of Asset Classes on the Range Spreads Platform over a specified time period, when placing Range Spreads Trades on such Underlying Assets on the Range Spreads Platform, there is no guarantee you will achieve a Potential Return on your Range Spreads. Clients may place Trades on certain Underlying Assets of Asset Classes through the Range Spreads Platform based on actual Market performance consisting of a finite number of Trade prices. A Range Spreads will be accepted and be entered into when the Trade is executed by our Range Spreads Platform. Our Range Spreads Platform will record all your Trade executions and you can access the relevant information of your executed Trades on the Trade history section of the Range Spreads Platform. To place a Trade, you are required to establish your Trade specifications on the Range Spreads Platform; the following Trade specification should be established by you; the Asset Class, the Underlying Asset, the investment amount, set a time period in the future from the start time to the expiry time, a maximum Price and a minimum Price – whereupon, during normal trading hours as set out by us from time to time, your trade may provide a Potential Return from zero up to a maximum Potential Return as set out on the Range Spreads Platform when you place your Trade. When a Trade is placed on the Range Spreads Platform and a Range Spreads is successfully opened, the cost of the Trade will immediately become payable and a corresponding change will be made to the funds available in your relevant Range Spreads Account. To open a Range Spreads on the Range Spreads Platform, you may open a Range Spreads at the Price quoted by the Platform, at the time of such Trade, you may specify an expiry time at which the resulting Open Position shall be closed with no further intervention by you, unless sold by you prior to the expiry time. Range Spreads open Trades or Open Positions cannot be transferred to other Range Spreads providers or their Platforms. For full details about our Order Execution Policy, please visit our Website.

3. Rejection of Trades

You should be aware that placing a Trade for a Range Spreads does not guarantee that a Range Spreads will be entered into. We cannot guarantee the execution of your Range Spreads in particular during extreme Market conditions or circumstances that are out of our control, which can result in the rejection of your Range Spreads. Where Trades are placed to enter into a Range Spreads, outside trading hours of the Range Spreads Platform, Trades will be rejected. If you have not deposited sufficient funds onto the Range Spreads Platform and the amount of your funds is lower than the cost of your desired Trade, the Range Spreads will not be entered into and will be rejected.

4. Profit or Loss

If the Underlying Asset's Price is below the maximum Potential Price and above the minimum Potential Price (referred to as "In the Range"), during the time period from start time to expiry time (referred to as "During the Range"), which together are referred to as the "Boundaries", a Potential Return can be achieved.

The amount of your Potential Return on your Range Spreads can be calculated as follows:

Potential Return = The number of available Price both “In the Range” X the number of Prices “During the Range” divided by the total number of Prices “During the Range”

You should be aware that the Potential Return is an estimate and there is no guarantee that a Potential Return can be achieved. You should understand the risks involved in trading CFDs which are high risk complex products and only invest money you can afford to lose.

If there are no available prices in the Boundaries of the Range Spreads Platform and prices are only available outside the Boundaries, a Potential Return cannot be achieved, which is referred to as “Out of the Range”.

5. Withdrawal or Cancellation of Range Spreads Trades

If you have placed a Trade on any of the Underlying Assets of available Asset Classes and the Underlying Asset in which you invested is withdrawn by us prior to the expiry time of your Trade for any reason; such as but not limited to insufficient Market liquidity; the money you invested in the Trade of your chosen Underlying Asset is returned to your Account in full without any deductions, charges or increase from the original amount invested. You can cancel your Range Spreads at any time by selling the Range Spreads at the best available Market price as set out on the Range Spreads Platform, but an open Trade cannot be amended or altered.

6. Pricing Error

From time to time a pricing error may occur (including circumstances outside our control) which prevents our Range Spreads Platform from determining the Price for a Range Spreads. If we become aware of a pricing error during the life of the Range Spreads, we may, provided it is fair and reasonable in the circumstances, declare that Range Spreads void and return the funds you invested to your Account.

7. Trading Hours

Trading hours are as set out on the Range Spreads Platform, as amended from time to time.

1. Corporate Actions

- 1.1 A corporate action ("Corporate Action") is any action or event whether temporary or otherwise, in relation to an Underlying Asset of a Product, or in relation to the issuer of an Underlying Asset, which would have an effect on the value, legal characteristics or ability to trade the Underlying Asset or a Derivative based on or referencing such underlying instrument.
- 1.2 A Corporate Action may occur in relation to the Underlying Asset of a Product. If any instrument becomes subject to a Corporate Action (dividend included), we will determine appropriate actions (in our reasonable opinion) to: a) Replicate this in your Order or CFD trade b) Reflect any action taken by counterparties to trades in respect of such Underlying Assets of the Product that we have entered into in order to hedge or offset our exposure to you c) Preserve the economic equivalent of your Order or CFD trade immediately prior to the Corporate Action, which may have consequences on your CFD trade.
- 1.3 We will give you notice of any applicable action that we decide to take as soon as reasonably practical. In some cases, advance notice might not be possible and we will only inform you after the relevant action.

2. Dividends

- 2.1 Where applicable (e.g. where an instrument is a stock or a share in respect of which a dividend is paid) a dividend adjustment will be calculated. A dividend adjustment will be calculated for your account in respect of open positions held on the ex-dividend day for the relevant underlying instrument.
- 2.2 For long positions, the dividend adjustment will generally be a cash adjustment reflecting the amount of the net dividend receivable. For short positions, the dividend adjustment will generally be a cash adjustment payable reflecting the pre-tax dividend amount, unless otherwise agreed.
- 2.3 Adjustments reflecting dividends will be credited to your Account if you bought (opened a long position) and debited from your Account if you sold (opened a short position)
- 2.4 Some Markets where we might offer CFDs on shares contain a dividend element which is forecasted by us. In the event that the declared dividend is unusually large, small or cancelled or the ex-dividend date differs from our forecasted ex-dividend date, we reserve the right to make an adjustment to the Accounts to reflect such differences, provided any such adjustment must be fair and reasonable.
- 2.5 In the event that a dividend provides the clients with a choice (example: to choose between receiving different currencies) we will, usually apply the default option to the Accounts unless otherwise advised.
- 2.6 In the event that a dividend provides the clients with a choice of cash or stock, we will usually apply the default option to the Accounts unless otherwise advised.
- 2.7 If you have a guaranteed stop on an instrument that becomes subject to a dividend adjustment, we reserve the right to amend the guaranteed stop price by the size of the dividend adjustment.
3. We will make any relevant adjustment to the Accounts with respect to Corporate Action as soon as reasonably practical for us to do so.
4. If the underlying Market of a CFD on shares becomes suspended we reserve the right to margin all associated Trades at 100% and value the Market appropriately. This may mean your Trade being either valued at zero or at the last price held in our Market at the time of suspension.
5. If the underlying market of a CFD on shares becomes delisted we reserve the right to close all Trades associated with that Market at zero.
6. Please note that shareholders are offered the choice to receive the dividend in cash or in additional new shares of the company (at a discount to market).
